

The British Association of Sport and Exercise Sciences
Annual Report and Financial Statements
2014-2015

The Board Report

The Board has pleasure in presenting its annual report and the financial statements of the British Association of Sport and Exercise Sciences (BASES) for the year ended 31 March 2015. The main attention of the Board has been given to the items identified in the Strategic Plan. The governance of the Association was undertaken in accordance with our rules and articles. Across the year, the Board has worked on producing a strategic plan for 2015-2020. This plan has four main strategic imperative headings: membership, standards, events and publications; all of which will be underpinned by improved internal and external communications to ensure BASES is recognised as the UK's leading professional body in sport and exercise sciences. The new strategic plan will be presented at the 2015 annual general meeting and in the Spring issue of The Sport and Exercise Scientist.

Research, evidence-based practice and distribution of knowledge

The Association has continued to provide quality continuing professional development opportunities, including conferences, webinars and workshops. BASES Conference 2014 saw an exciting new format, with a change from the 30 year old tradition of inviting members to apply to host the BASES Annual Conference at their own university. After a comprehensive review of the event, the Board decided that the flagship event should be organised in-house by BASES in close partnership with an event management company, The Media Group. The prestigious St. George's Park was chosen as the location and the event was moved from the traditional timing of early September to 25-26 November. A Scientific Programme Committee was appointed, chaired by Prof Clyde Williams OBE, FBASES. This committee was tasked with putting together a 2-day programme packed with quality and significant content. The Board was delighted with this new format, which 97% of delegates rated as excellent, very good or good. Abstracts of all presentations continue to be published in an online supplement of the Journal of Sports Sciences.

“After a comprehensive review of the event, the Board decided that the flagship event should be organised in-house by BASES in close partnership with an event management company, The Media Group.”

The Nottingham-based East Midlands Conference Centre will host the 2016 and 2017 conferences. The dates are 29-30 November 2016 and 28-29 November 2017. The Division of Psychology was successful in its bid, on behalf of BASES, to host the 2017 European Federation of Sport Psychology (FEPSAC) Conference. As such, BASES-FEPSAC Conference 2017 will be an exciting joint conference combining BASES Conference 2017 with the 2017 FEPSAC European Sport Psychology Conference.

The School of Sport and Exercise Sciences at Liverpool John Moores University hosted the BASES Student Conference 2015. The theme of the conference was 40 Years of Sport and Exercise Science: A History in the Making, and marked the 40 year anniversary of the first ever sport science degree, established by Prof Tom Reilly FBASES in 1975. The strong conference programme was based around the current issues relevant to sport and exercise scientists, but with one eye on how 40 years of sport science history has shaped what we 'make' and 'do' in the current day. The conference was attended by over 350 delegates and was well supported by a number of trade and university exhibitors. With over 200 student presentations being made, the conference produced an informative and stimulating two days of sport and exercise science, offering delegates the opportunity to 'meet, share and learn' and have a very positive and successful conference experience. The BASES Student Conference 2016 will be hosted by the School of Sport, Health and Exercise Sciences, Bangor University, Wales on 22-23 March 2016.

BASES organised 15 authoritative, cutting-edge workshops over the past year, which were attended by 180 delegates. Nine workshops were linked with the supervised experience programme, including two supervisee entry workshops. One webinar presented by Mustafa Sarkar and Paul Morgan, entitled Developing Resilience: From Theory to Practice, attracted 480 registrants.

BASES has expanded its publication portfolio. In addition to The Sport and Exercise Scientist, there is now a new online Journal of Applied Case Studies in Sport and Exercise Sciences (JACSSSES). JACSSSES is a journal devoted to representing, promoting and informing applied practice in sport and exercise sciences: capturing real life accounts of scientifically informed professional experiences and exploring the ways that contemporary research in sport and exercise science informs applied practice. JACSSES presents case studies conducted with individuals, pairs (e.g., coach-athlete, athlete-athlete), small groups, teams and sport/health organisations. Members that have produced case studies for accreditation applications or other purposes should consider submitting these to the journal.

Above: BASES Conference 2014 in its exciting new format

In the summer, the Journal of Sports Sciences received its impact factor (IF) for the calendar year 2014, now calculated as 2.246. This is an improvement on last year's (2013) impact factor of 2.095 and ranks the Journal at 19th out of 81 sports-related journals (note that, for comparison, in 2011 the Journal was ranked at 28/84 among the sports-related journals). The number of articles the Journal is receiving remains high with 1,123 articles received already this year (1 January to 20 October 2015). Profs Alan Nevill and Edward Winter FBASES CSci have announced their retirement from the Journal in 2016, having served the Journal editorially for a combined total of 36 years. We take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude for their long-standing dedication and internationally-renowned expertise in advancing the Journal's reputation.

The BASES annual awards scheme continues to support excellence and the grants scheme provides financial support for BASES members to attend international conferences. The Board has committed to introducing early career grants to support researchers and practitioners. The expert statements continue to be a great success. This year, BASES produced three statements on Assessment and Management of Non-asthma Related Breathing Problems in Athletes, Training for Older and Clinical Groups using Arm Crank Ergometry and the Effect of Aerobic Exercise on Body Mass Regulation: Individual Variability and Compensatory Responses. There are 20 BASES expert statements available for download on the BASES website.

BASES fellowship recognises esteemed professional achievement, skills, knowledge and service to BASES and the sport and exercise science community made by BASES professional members. Four new fellowships were awarded in 2014 to Drs Brendan Cropley CSci, Phil Graham-Smith, Stephen Ingham and Dominic Micklewright. In 2015 fellowships were awarded to Prof Susan Backhouse, Prof Bill Baltzopoulos, Dr Gary Brickley CSci, Dr David Broom, Dr Graeme Close, Dr Tracey Devonport CSci, Dr Lance Daggart and Dr Emma Ross, which brings the total of BASES Fellows to 90.

High professional standards

There are now 160 BASES members currently undertaking supervised experience with 125 registered supervisors and 85 reviewers supporting the scheme. BASES has 281 accredited members, 184 Chartered Scientists, 37 Certified Exercise Practitioners and 23 members hold High Performance Sport Accreditation. There are now 24 accredited physiology laboratories.

A BASES Accreditation Review Task Group has been appointed to review all aspects of accreditation and supervised experience including all the paperwork and make suggestions for improvement. The aim is to streamline the accreditation process to ensure maximum uptake whilst maintaining standards.

The BASES Undergraduate Endorsement Scheme has 34 courses listed with University of Bedfordshire,

University of Derby and University of Huddersfield successfully endorsing their courses over the past year and Edgehill University and Swansea University have also successfully re-endorsed their courses.

“A BASES Accreditation Review Task Group has been appointed to review all aspects of accreditation and supervised experience including all the paperwork and make suggestions for improvement. The aim is to streamline the accreditation process to ensure maximum uptake whilst maintaining standards.”

BASES has partnered with Our Mobile Health to deliver a mobile app library. Now BASES members can find quality apps at www.ourhealth.org.uk, which are relevant to their field and reviewed by BASES members. App selection is based on a series of technical and peer reviews, to ensure that they meet the needs, policies and safety standards, which BASES members expect and look for.

Represent sport and exercise sciences

Membership at 1 May 2015 was 2,178 (2014: 2,141), comprising 932 professional members, 999 student members, 63 graduate members, 48 overseas members, 39 affiliate members, 81 Fellows and 16 retired members.

The twelfth annual BASES Heads of Department forum was hosted by Staffordshire University in April 2015 hosting over 70 attendees representing 44 Universities. This annual event continues to provide an effective source of networking and updating for sport and exercise science heads of department.

This year the 30th Annual meeting of the Biomechanics Interest Group (BIG) was run under the Division of Biomechanics and Motor Behaviour banner. The event was a huge success with more than 100 delegates attending the University of Roehampton for a day of research communications and a keynote lecture from Prof Bill Baltzopoulos FBASES on the recent Research Exercise Framework. The next BIG meeting will be hosted by Liverpool John Moores University. With the continued popularity of BIG there is a determined effort to emulate some of this success by developing the workshop and webinar activities of the Division and to increase the profile of biomechanics at the BASES Annual Conference.

The Division of Physical Activity for Health hosted two divisional days. These were free to attend events for members interested in any area related to physical activity for health. The first day was held in February 2015 at Coventry University and attracted approximately 50 delegates. The second day was held in September 2015 at the University of Derby and attracted approximately 60 delegates. On both occasions there was a mix of keynote speakers, workshops, debates and opportunities for early career researchers to present their work.

Over the last year, the Division of Psychology has worked hard on ensuring that it offers appropriate workshop and webinar opportunities for members. It also ran the first workshop on Improving Sport Psychology Services to Parents linked to the Association of Applied Sport Psychology (AASP) international student conference that BASES supported. The Division has decided to run a short member survey at BASES Conference 2015 to gain information and perspectives on the needs of psychology-related members so as to inform our Divisional strategies going forward. The Division is also looking to consider hosting divisional meeting and seminar days in 2016. We foresee that accreditation and supervised experience will form key elements of work going forward, with consideration of CSci and HCPC status/pathways. We will be looking to recruit additional members to support the projects that we decide to pursue. The Division of Physiology and Nutrition is planning some research workshops and 'away-days' for members during 2016. There will be a Division of Sport and Performance meeting at Nottingham Trent University shortly, which will include short member presentations on their work followed by a general discussion of the possible activities and meetings of the Division.

BASES continues to be active through social media. We currently have 16,000 followers on Twitter (2014: 11,000) and over 2,883 enthusiasts registered for Facebook updates (2014: 1,800). Social media has allowed BASES to promote, beyond its membership, the work being carried out within the sport and exercise science community.

“The twelfth annual BASES Heads of Department forum was hosted by Staffordshire University in April 2015 hosting over 70 attendees representing 44 Universities. This annual event continues to provide an effective source of networking and updating for sport and exercise science heads of department.”

Finance

The Board reports a surplus for the year ended 31 March 2015 of £30,961. BASES is a not-for-profit organisation; as such, it needs to operate on the basis that it is not seeking to make a profit over the long term and surplus should be re-invested. For the financial year 2014-15, maintaining a reserve between £117,000 and £234,000 was agreed; the total reserves at 31 March 2015 were £231,582.

Key areas of re-investment will be the development of early career grants and the appointment of a Marketing and Communications Officer. This role has been created to develop and improve marketing

“Key areas of re-investment will be the development of early career grants and the appointment of a Marketing and Communications Officer. This role has been created to develop and improve marketing and communications across the key activities and services of BASES.

The aim of the role includes ensuring BASES achieves its vision to be recognised as the UK’s leading professional body in sport and exercise sciences.”

The decision to organise the annual conference in-house has changed the income and expenditure reporting of this event in the financial statements. The previous financial arrangement with the host institutions was that any surplus from the conference was split 50:50 between BASES and the host institution and any deficit was carried by the host institution. The aim is to move the annual conference to a break-even status by 2017.

Acknowledgements

Finally, the Board would like to pay special tribute to those individuals who have contributed their time and energy to the Association.

and communications across the key activities and services of BASES. The aim of the role includes ensuring BASES achieves its vision to be recognised as the UK’s leading professional body in sport and exercise sciences.

BASES is delighted to have entered a sponsorship agreement with the GSK Human Performance Lab. The GSK Human Performance Lab is a leading research centre, supporting elite performers and conducting novel applied research. It has a broad focus across health and performance of elite performers. There is a good fit across the two organisations with their similar and complementary objectives. The Board believes that members may benefit from the GSK Human Performance Lab Expert Community, which is designed to give academics, applied scientists, practitioners and coaches access to their cutting-edge research and expertise in elite human performance.
